A warm welcome to The Unworking Conference

The Unworking Conference is the event for all those involved in the future of work and the workplace as well as real estate, technology and innovation.

Join fellow workplace professionals for a transformative journey as we challenge the status quo of traditional office culture.

Over two dynamic days, immerse yourself in a ground-breaking manifesto for 'unworking', shedding outdated habits and embracing the potential of smart technology and workplace experience.

Day One | Smart Technologies will explore how new technologies are shaping the built environment and the new world of work.

Day Two | Workplace Experience explores how creating a positive employee experience drives wellbeing and productivity.

At Meta, Kings Cross, on Tuesday 4th June, the setting is designed to enhance local biodiversity and staff wellbeing. Meanwhile, on Wednesday 5th June, at The Ministry Borough, delegates will convene in a beautifully converted warehouse.

We hope you will be able to join us and we are looking forward to welcoming you to the event on 4th and 5th June.

Warmest regards,
Caroline & Isabel

LONDON'S URBAN EVOLUTION | ADAPTING TO CHANGE

London as a city is facing dynamic change... hybrid work, climate change, shifting demographics necessitate a re-valuation of infrastructure and urban design to adapt to new realities and ensure resilience. How do we respond with agility and innovation to shape the city's future trajectory and maintain its status as a global metropolis?

11:05 WORKING ASSUMPTIONS

Julia Hobsbawm OBE

British entrepreneur, writer, and expert keynote speaker

Despite global wars and global elections, the world of work remains a top-of-mind topic. In this opening session we hear from Julia about her latest book, Working Assumptions, which addresses some of the key issues affecting how we live and work including: the threat to white collar jobs from generative AI; rising tensions between Gen Z and their elder managers; flexible working: leaders must change their approach to keep up with their workforce; the four-day week: whether it works and whether it will catch on; increasing culture wars in the workplace, including the Israel/Gaza war; America's influence on the world of work, and whether it is waning and rapid changes to city centres as commuter patterns change.

11:45 EXPERT PANEL DISCUSSION: THE FUTURE OF WORK AND INNOVATION IN REAL ESTATE

Moderator: Ravi Lakhani, Head of Smart Solutions, Cordless Consultants,
Matthew O'Halloran, Director, Head of Revenue, Smart Spaces, Andy Bradshaw, Director of Property and Workplace, DLA Piper, David Crew, Head of Corporate Real Estate, Hogan Lovells, Jess Costanzo, Commercial Director, Simmtronic

Industry leaders join this panel to discuss active and newly completed real estate projects focusing on the latest technologies revolutionising the workplace. Discover how smart buildings, visitor management systems, and other innovations are reshaping talent attraction, workplace experience, and sustainability practices. Gain insights into measuring success and creating adaptable workspaces that prioritise employee well-being and engagement.

15:20 LIVING BUILDINGS: PAST, PRESENT, FUTURE

Jessica White, Growth Leader and Global Director of GSI Partnerships, Honeywell and AI Advisor in the Future of Work domain

Honeywell

From ancient times, humans have gathered in communities, forming circles to fulfil basic needs outlined in Maslow's hierarchy, such as safety, security, and sustainability. Fast forward to today, and these fundamental requirements persist, but the settings have evolved—our modern circles are the buildings where we work and interact. Honeywell Forge building solutions represent the evolution of these needs, symbolised by our “Outcome” based approach tailored to today's building environments. As we shift from collective experiences to individualised solutions, Honeywell continues to innovate, with buildings systems, designed to deliver business outcomes. Honeywell is committed to helping make the world smarter, safer, and more sustainable.

15:50 CLOSING KEYNOTE: DESIGN AND THE CITY – LEARNINGS FROM A 10-YEAR JOURNEY

Indy Johar, CEO and Founder, Dark Matter Labs

Indy presents a case for how the way we work and live is going through deep-code transformation at a speed and scale equivalent to the transition of World War. This keynote examines how, our very ideas of self, how we exist within the world, relate to it and each other is on the precipice of change that will affect everything - energy systems, material, food and nutrient systems – through to how we make decisions as societies in a complex, emergent world. This apex of transformation affects us and the way we use cities and work and will require us to radically reshape our habits, behaviours, thinking patterns and relationships. Indy explores how Design thinking can bring a way of thinking to different aspects of how we live and work in an era of complexity and uncertainty.

WORKPLACE EXPERIENCE

13:55 | REVOLUTIONISE YOUR WORKPLACE - DISCOVER THE SECRETS BEHIND AN IRRESISTIBLE EMPLOYEE EXPERIENCE

Emma Bridger, Founder, People Lab / The EX Space

Despite 20 plus years of focusing on employee engagement we have seen little improvement. Why? Because we need to focus on intentionally designing experiences that deliver engagement. This starts by asking what a great Employee Experience (EX) looks and feels like. Emma has spent 15 years researching this question, and gathering stories about what makes a great EX at work. In this keynote she'll share the findings with you along with a simple, practical, but powerful tool that will enable you to discover what will make the difference in your own organisation. We're now in the era of EX, we invite you to come along to this session as Emma shares the tools and insights to transform workplaces into vibrant hubs of excellence.

14:20 | LEADING LIKE A GARDENER: HOW TO SOW THE SEEDS OF SUCCESS

Jeff Dewing, Founder and CEO, Cloud

Leaders and their organisations confront a critical dilemma: only 11% of the UK workforce feels engaged at work. But the key to energising people has nothing to do with money. Jeff Dewing's keynote unveils the reality: culture is the soil you create for your plants to grow, but you don't grow a culture, you grow a community. Leadership mirrors gardening – any leader can nurture thriving individuals by learning some key lessons. Discover the ingredients you need to embody authentic values, build a vision that people believe in and grow a community where everyone flourishes.

14:45 | EXPERT PANEL DISCUSSION: FOSTERING A COMMUNITY CULTURE: LEADERSHIP STRATEGIES FOR BUILDING COHESIVE AND ENGAGED TEAMS

15:50 | RHYTHMS OF INNOVATION: TRANSFORMING LONDON'S WORKSPACE LANDSCAPE

Mike Petrusky, Host of "Workplace Innovator Podcast" & Director of Podcasts, Eptura / Lohan Presencer, Executive Chairman, The Ministry of Sound Group

Take a deep dive into The Ministry's vision for the workspace of the future. Lohan Presencer outlines his ambitious concept which fuses community, workspace, and social hub. Learn how Ministry of Sound Group re-purposed a former warehouse in Borough to meet the needs of both work and play in one of the buzziest zones in the city. Discover the innovative design elements, flexible amenities, and neighbourhood partnerships driving the success of this beautifully converted 50,000 sqft workspace. Don't miss this talk on the intersection of work, life, and social experience in the modern urban landscape.

16:20 | HOW THE WORKPLACE ENABLES INDIVIDUAL AND COLLECTIVE PROGRESS

Naomi Sakamoto, Principal, Studio Director, Gensler

Gensler

We've heard the workplace described as a hospitality experience, social club, or boutique hotel; but if our aim is mastery, then the best analogue may be the gym—an environment designed for deliberate, focused practice on challenges beyond our skill. These divergent masteries must then come together on the pitch, where constructive disagreement allows us to progress towards a shared goal. Informed by Gensler's 2024 Global Workplace Survey data, we speculate about the enduring value of face-to-face interactions in a tech-enabled world.

UNWORKING | THE REINVENTION OF THE MODERN OFFICE

Right in the middle of the biggest transformation of work and workplace for a generation, our new book seeks to provide an essential guide to the future by exploring 10 key forces at play.

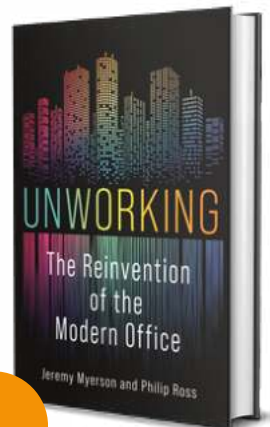

We've put our heads together to create a panoramic view of the workplace and a manifesto for 'Unworking', - unlearning old habits and rituals established for an outdated office and crafting and creating new ones fit for an age of digital technology, design innovation, and diverse workforces.

We explore how the working patterns and established principles of the office over the past 100 years are now being disrupted by new ideas. Our book aims to bring these new concepts and ways of thinking to life.

We hope you'll enjoy reading it as much as we did writing it!

With best wishes,

Philip Ross & Jeremy Myerson

DAY ONE VENUE | META, KINGS CROSS

Meta

11-21 Canal Reach

10 Lewis Cubitt Square

N1C 4BT

10 Lewis Cubitt Square, by AHMM Architects, offers nine floors of office space, featuring a fifth-floor wraparound terrace and ground-level retail. It houses engineering teams for Instagram, Reality Labs, Workplace, and Ads & Business Products.

London is Meta's largest engineering hub outside the US, with over 4,000 employees across offices in Brock Street, Rathbone Place, Shaftesbury Avenue, and now King's Cross.

Kings Cross, London's fastest-growing district, has surpassed other Opportunity Areas in employment and population growth over the past decade. Positioned in the knowledge quarter, it attracts major global companies, becoming a hub for creative and digital businesses. Upon completion, approximately 42,000 employees will work across the estate.

DAY TWO VENUE | THE MINISTRY, BOROUGH

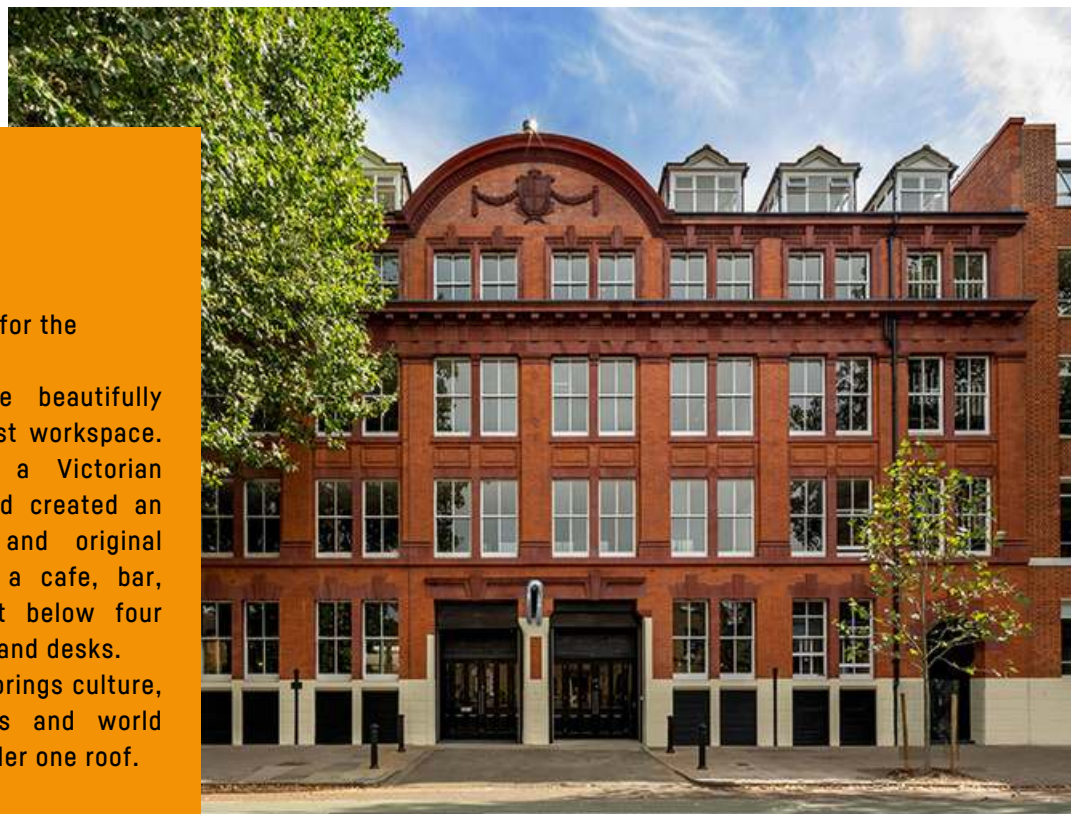

79-81 Borough Road,
London,
SE1 1DN

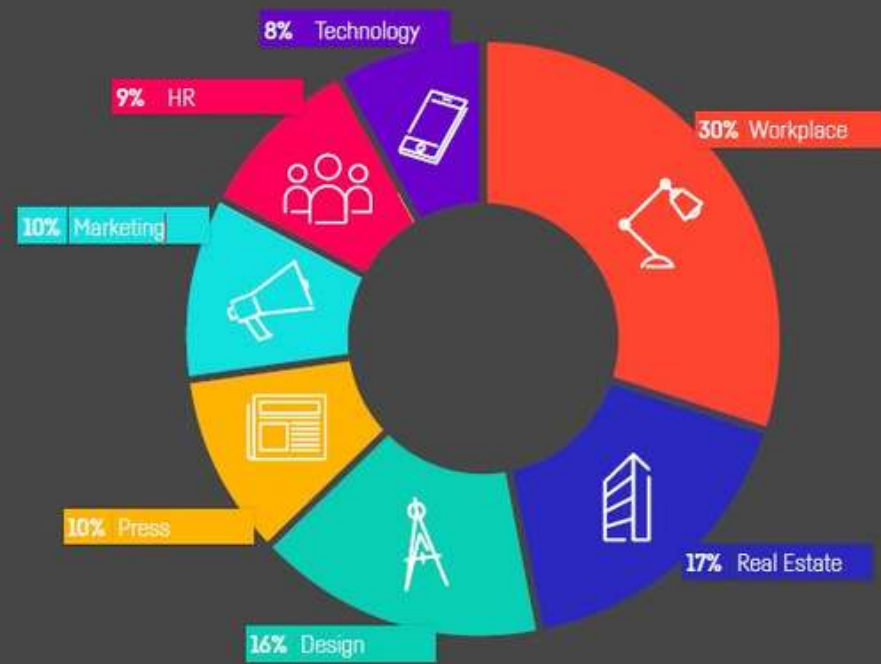

The Ministry is a workspace for the creative industries.

A 50,000 sqft warehouse beautifully converted into London's best workspace. The Ministry has taken a Victorian printworks in Borough and created an environment for artistic and original thinkers. Two floors with a cafe, bar, sound studio and gym sit below four floors of co-working offices and desks.

The Ministry Borough Road brings culture, community, fitness, events and world class amenities together under one roof.
